Basic information

The aptitude test is a special form of tax consultant examination for persons who wish to work as tax consultants in Germany on a business basis (i.e. independently) or use the title of "tax consultant" with a professional qualification which they have acquired in another European country or which has been recognized there. It is not possible to enter the profession in Germany solely on the basis of a completed domestic or foreign professional qualification (university degree or commercial training). In any case, a state examination (the tax consultant examination or the aptitude test) must be successfully completed beforehand. Admission to the aptitude test must be applied for in writing. The admission requirements are checked by the Hanseatic Chamber of Tax Consultants Bremen. An information sheet on the admission requirements is posted at <http://www.stbkammer-bremen.de/zulassung-befreiung-eignungspruefung-verbindliche-auskunft.html>.
